

Meaningful connections.

OETKER COLLECTION

From the EDITOR

One of the great joys of travel is having a chance to look at the world with fresh eyes and experience a renewed sense of discovery - of people and places, or simply taking time to disconnect from a frenetic digital existence and re-connect with oneself.

At Oetker Collection, meaningful connections are the secret ingredients to an unforgettable stay. They come through in attention to detail so precise it becomes second nature, from welcoming guests by name to ensuring that a room is exactly as a visitor prefers, right down to the temperature.

Meaningful connections frequently happen over milestone occasions, such as a special dinner at one of our Michelin-starred restaurants. But even more often, they blossom from small, personal attentions that speak volumes, whether it's a housekeeper who recalls your preference in pillows, a barman who greets you with a favorite aperitif, or a concierge who takes the time to map out what you're sure to appreciate most about a place - or discreetly shares in the joy of welcoming a new grandchild.

Whether you seek an exceptional experience in a special destination or are simply wishing to feel right at home in a faraway land, the Oetker Collection family will always make a point of ensuring that every detail of your stay is seamless, personalized and special.

For all of us at Oetker Collection, sparkling meaningful connections is what brings precious memories to life.

Château Saint-Martin welcomes two artists this season

With Vence long-considered a magnet for some of the world's greatest artists, Château Saint-Martin & Spa is delighted to welcome two of Europe's finest multi-medium creatives to exhibit at the hotel throughout the 2019 season. Permeating the hotel's scenic French gardens, Chapel and Gallery, the works of two of Spain and France's finest artistic exports, Manolo Valdés and Erick Ifergan will take centre stage and offer guests and hotel visitors a colourful visual and sensory delight.

Following the resounding success of the hotel's reimagined Chapel last year, where Erick Ifergan transformed the space with an expansive floor-to-ceiling, magical mural of the 'Tree of Life', the Château is thrilled to welcome the artist back for the 2019 season with several paintings and ceramic creations joining the gallery. In the gardens, four impressive Valdés bronze sculptures are strategically peppered around the hotel's grounds, to delight guests in discovering a fairy-tale-like figure at every turn.

Art is in the air

Following the successful exhibition of Venet works last year, Hotel du Cap-Eden-Roc is delighted to announce the collaboration with Sir Anthony Cragg as their artistic partner for 2019.

Tony Cragg has featured in a great many museum exhibitions and is highly collected around the world. Notable exhibitions include: Yorkshire Sculpture Park, The State Hermitage Museum, St Petersburg, representing Britain at the 43rd Venice Biennale in 1988, and winning the Turner Prize in the same year.

Working with Tony Cragg and Blain|Southern the exhibition features five works: "Tommy", the stunning "Contradiction" and "3D Incident" set either side of the main entrance, with a further two works in the main grounds: "Caught Dreaming" and "Elliptical Column". The gardens and atmosphere of Hotel du Cap-Eden-Roc compliment the works, embracing their form, creating a powerful dialogue that both surprises yet at the same is in harmony with this Oetker Collection masterpiece.

Le Bristol Paris

At Le Bristol Paris guests are invited for a surreal night sleep in their Paris Suite, heisted by radical pop artist Bertrand Lavier and transformed into a 'live-in' exhibit. Inspired by the Disney story about Mickey and Minnie's adventures in a modern art museum, the living room of this lavishly elegant suite has become a 'thought bubble' from Lavier's mind, with cartoon characters jumping off the page into sculptures set in a technicolour space.

The work, an extension of Bertrand Lavier's Walt Disney Productions series, continues in Le Bristol Paris gardens where three-meter-high brilliantly bright sculptures confront guests amidst the nurtured elegance

Masterpiece Estates Welcome Historic Homes in Scotland and Ireland

Oetker Collection's Masterpiece Estates program is pleased to announce two new additions to its portfolio of private estates.

A true historical marvel dating to the 12th century, Lismore Castle was once the home of Sir Walter Raleigh and has been the private residence of the Dukes of Devonshire since 1753. Ideally situated in the heart of the magnificent and peaceful Blackwater Valley outside the vibrant city of Cork, it offers a seven-acre garden - the oldest of its kind in Ireland - on-site horseback riding, a nine-hole golf course, and easy access to trekking, salmon fishing, kayaking and canoeing.

Its impeccable décor features a world-class art collection, making this the ultimate backdrop for a private family retreat with service by the Devonshire family's private staff and butler.

Located on the banks of Loch Leven, half an hour's drive from

Edinburgh, the 17th-century Kinross House is the earliest and most important neoclassical Palladian mansion in Scotland, with period furnishings, a formal garden and 100 acres of rolling woodland. Accommodations in the main house include 14 ensuite bedrooms, ample space for entertaining up to 100 dinner guests, a whiskey library, a billiards room and a small gym; the historic Coach House (10 ensuite bedrooms) is also available for use.

Experiences include a day spa and the chance to observe a master chef at work in the Kitchen Dining Room; outdoor activities include highland games, clay pigeon shooting, archery and falconry, and a private pier for boating and fishing expeditions.

Just opposite is Lock Leven Castle Island, where Mary Queen of Scots was imprisoned and ultimately abdicated.

New estates will be joining the Masterpiece Estates portfolio soon.

Private Residences at Jumby Bay Island

In addition to the resort's suites, Jumby Bay Island features 20 exquisite, ultra-luxe Private Residences available for rental. They are dotted around the island and offer discerning travellers the utmost privacy from the main resort, without compromising access to the facilities. Ideal for a family reunion or a special celebration, Jumby Bay Island's Private Residences set the standard high for Caribbean luxury.

Honoring a Commitment to Community Service

Palácio Tangará has reiterated its commitment to the local community through its involvement with CAMP, a non-governmental organization that acts as a vocational school for training in the hotel industry. In addition, the hotel actively cultivates partnerships with local entities including the Associação Paraisópolis, by hosting a fundraiser for the foundation of a community bank, and the Associação Maria Helen Drexel, an NGO chosen by the hotel's team members for its work with young victims of abuse. Last holiday season, Palácio Tangará helped to ensure that each of the 38 children and teenagers in the association's care received a Christmas package containing clothes, shoes, toys and a special gift such as books or school supplies.

Celebrating a Cinematic Love Affair

For 70 years, the movie industry's stars, filmmakers and iconic couples have lit up the silver screen and the red carpet from Cannes to Hollywood and beyond, illuminating the pages of Paris Match along the way.

From May 16th through October, the Hotel du Cap-Eden-Roc will host an exclusive exhibition of 22 photographs that were published in Paris Match and are now part of filmmaking history, each one numbered, signed and available for purchase. Don't miss a chance to gaze at the stars - and perhaps claim one as your own.

Eden Angels at Work in St-Barths

In partnership with Island Nature St. Barth Experience, our CSR team Eden Angels has worked to create a mangrove boardwalk to enhance quality-of-life for visitors, locals and marine wildlife.

Turtle Watching at Jumby Bay Island

Taking part in the nightly Turtle Watch is often an emotional highlight in the ecologically minded traveler's stay at Jumby Bay.

From June to November, Jumby Bay's Pasture Bay Beach is one of the world's primary nesting habitats for the endangered Hawksbill Sea Turtle, which returns to the island each year to lay eggs.

Guests may sign up for a visit to Pasture Bay Beach where, accompanied by a Jumby Bay Hawksbill Project Researcher, they may observe the sea turtles nesting and see their young hatch.

For the past 30 years, Jumby Bay Hawksbill Project has been an important part of the island community for their research and conservation initiatives to monitor and protect the Hawksbill Sea Turtle nesting colony in Antigua.

The InsidER App: Just the Right Touch

Becoming a true islander has never been so easy! Since its introduction last November, InsidER App has become the essential digital tool for Eden Rock guests: here, centralized in one place is the best of St Barths' addresses, events and hotspots, specially curated by our concierges. After browsing through, guests are encouraged to get in touch with their dedicated concierge or butler for bookings or further information.

Supporting Worker Bees, Today and Tomorrow

To ensure that making meaningful connections will continue to define the Oetker Collection experience in the future, the non-profit Alfred Brenner Foundation (Alfred-Brenner-Stiftung) in Baden-Baden has awarded its 15th annual, 3,000 euro scholarship to help advance tomorrow's top hoteliers and caterers.

Elsewhere at Brenners Park Hotel & Spa, the hotel is supporting five bee colonies in the world-renowned Lichtentaler Allee, opposite the hotel.

“Brenners Bees” come from the third-generation family-run Kolb apiary nearby, and have been bred for their placid temperament and harvesting qualities.

At Brenners, local and regional cuisine features lime tree blossom, rapeseed blossom, cherry blossom and fir tree honeys, an assortment of which is also available for purchase.

The hotel likewise tends to ten apple trees on its grounds.
