The most glamorous hotel restaurant terraces to book now

With picture-perfect setups and inestimable service, starched linen tablecloths, fabulous rooftops, and a few idyllic garden terraces, al fresco hotel restaurants just know how to impart a glamorous sense of 'fun' like nowhere else...

THE LANESBOROUGH, LONDON

One of those hidden treasures that you wish you could keep to yourself, The Lanesborough's Garden Room has come into its own in the past few weeks since lockdown eased. With its ample roof covering, open wood fireplace and cossetting blankets, there's no need to worry about an errant thunderstorm or a night time chill - it's always cosy out here. With lush greenery and smart dark wood furnishings, it's an instantly inviting space, particularly when the sun glints off the glass rooftop - close your eyes and you could be in St Tropez. While away a few hours over a bottle of Sancerre and a plate of the truffle fries, which are served with truffle ketchup for an added umami hit, or try one of the signature cocktails with a few lobster tacos. As evening arrives, guests mingle in and out of the humidor selecting cigars, or raise a toast with a nightcap of centuries-old Cognac - the hotel's collection is second to none.
